

The Guests

Try not to invite any more children than you can comfortably handle, 20-25 is the maximum Emazdad advises for a child's Birthday Party. 15-20 is the maximum recommended for 4-5 year olds as they can sometimes get a bit scared in larger crowds.

Try to avoid mixed age ranges

An 8 year old and a 4 year old have different needs and it's not fair on either age group as the older kids will try and dominate the party and spoil it for the youngsters, also the older kids may find anything you do for the youngsters too babyish.

Don't feel pressured to invite know trouble makers

If you've been to a party with your child and seen a certain child run amok and spoil the event, or your child talks about a child in their class who's always causing trouble don't be tempted to invite them to your party. It's not worth it, you are paying good money to ensure your child has the best party ever and if you invite this child they will spoil the party for your child and their other friends.
